Subject: Mr. ICY COLD

Good morning everyone present here. I am Harshit Kotecha from 8th std, and today I will present my book summary of Mr. Icy Cold, written by Enid Blyton. This book is a collection of a few stories written by her. The main story, Mr. Icy Cold, is an imaginary story which was very interesting.

There were a few children who were making a snowman in winter. They made the snowman using a hat, shoes, gloves, and sticks. At night, they went to their homes and the snowman felt lonely. The snow elves came that night; they were small creatures of the night. They also left after some time but promised to come the next night. When they came the next night, they were in a problem because their sleigh had been broken by Pixies. Pixies were tiny creatures of the elven community who were rebels. They asked the snowman for help. But there was a problem: a snowman can't walk. However, the children had also attached shoes to the snowman, so the snowman could walk. The elves took the snowman to the Pixies, and the snowman ordered the Pixies to repair the sleigh.

Name: Heet Soni

Class: 8-F

Good morning to one and all present here. I, Heet Soni from class 8-F, would like to give a short summary of the Famous Five Adventures (Christmas Eve) written by Enid Blyton. The characters are George, Anne, Timmy (a dog), George's mother and father, and Tom (at the end). The story starts on the night before Christmas. Everyone was busy wrapping presents, dancing, playing games, and enjoying themselves. Timmy became so excited that he began barking horribly. George's dad was a short-tempered man. He became so furious that he threw Timmy out of the house. Both George and Timmy became sad. George decided to take Timmy inside the house once everyone fell asleep. While taking Timmy inside the house, George mistakenly left the kitchen door open. Unfortunately, someone sneaked inside the house. Timmy saw him and again started barking. It was the village "bad boy," Tom. He hid behind the sofa. George's dad became angry and told George not to take Timmy inside. Timmy knew there was someone there but couldn't do anything. Tom took all the presents and started leaving.

Subject: Johny Appleseed (— David Harrison)

Once, there was a person named Johny Appleseed. One day, he went to the house of Beth and Will. Beth and Will were stubborn and insisted that they would listen to his story. But then Johny Appleseed said that he would tell them the story after helping their father and eating lunch. After doing this, he started telling the story: "When I was small, we were 10 mischievous brothers and sisters. When I completed school, I started earning for my family, and after some years, I packed my luggage and left my hometown, Massachusetts." On the way, he took a pack of apple seeds from a cider mill. Then, he started finding land to sow the seeds. After finding the land and sowing the seeds, he got inspired and sowed more and more seeds. He sold some seeds for six and a half cents to folks, traded some for clothes and food, and distributed some to the poor. His original name was Johny Chapman, but as he was fond of sowing seeds, he came to be known as Johny Appleseed.

Subject: Prenanu nu Zaranau

Today I will talk about a book, Prernanu nu Zaranu. It is written by Dr. Jitendra Adhiya. It explains that while hard work is okay, smart work is more important! In this book, it is explained with a story.

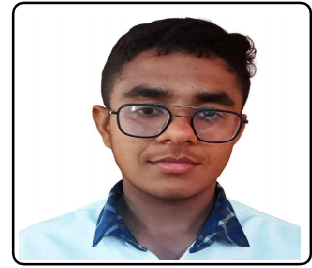

"One young man was there. He was searching for work. He thought of going to another village. When he was going, he passed through a timber factory. The manager asked, 'Why are you roaming here?' The man answered, 'I am searching for work.' The manager asked, 'Do you do the work of cutting trees?' The man said, 'Of course.' The next day, the man started the work of cutting. On the first day, he cut 7 trees; then on the 2nd day, 6 trees; and so the result went down. By the 7th day, he cut only 1 tree. The manager came and asked why his result was falling. The man said, 'I don't know.' The manager asked, 'Did you sharpen the axe?' The man said, 'No.' Then the manager explained." So, our axe is our body and mind. Our body will be sharpened with exercise, and our mind will be sharpened by taking rest.

Name: Parikshitraj R. Sakariya

My book's name is Ramayana, and its writer's name was Shyam Sundar Shastri. I will speak about Raja Dashrath and his wife named Kaikeyi. One day, Raja Dashrath went to fight and he lost a lot of blood. His wife Kaikeyi saved him, and Raja Dashrath told her she could have three blessings from him. Kaikeyi took these three blessings: "You will make Bharat the King of Ayodhya, you will punish Ramji, and you will tell Ramji to go on a 14-year exile (vanvash)." Moral: You should help anyone. They will help you in your difficult times.

Name: Mahiba Y Jadeja

Class: 8-G

Subject: "The Confidence Code for Girls"

Good morning all! I am Mahiba Jadeja from 8-G, and today I am going to talk about the book The Confidence Code for Girls, which is written by Katty Kay and Claire Shipman. This book is perfect for pre-teens and teens to build their confidence, which the authors define as the bridge between thought and action.

Now, if we think of it like a math formula, it is like: $\text{Thoughts} + \text{Confidence} = \text{Action}$. This book tells us that when some girls achieve their goals, some luck is involved just because of their inner doubt and lack of self-confidence. Confidence doesn't come from being perfect; it comes from being brave enough to try. There is one point in the book, "Think Less, Act More," which means that true confidence comes from taking action, not just from thinking about it. When we think, "Let me wait until I am 100% sure about myself," by that time you will miss out. Science has researched that girls often get stuck in the cycle of overthinking, which kills their confidence. Now, if we talk about failure, it is not the opposite of success; it's a necessary part of the confidence journey. Every mistake is a chance to learn and try again. Falling down is okay, but getting back up is what truly makes us strong.

Name: Sanvi Kotak

Class: 8-G

Subject: Body language.

Good morning respected teachers and my dear friends. I am Sanvi Kotak from 8-G. Today I am representing a book named Body Language. This book is written by Allan and Barbara Pease. "The best version of you is when you are you."

Everyone has the habit of judging a person by their clothes, language, or skin tone. This thing creates an ego in ourselves. I want to tell you a story from this book. Once, there was a king who wanted to check how loyal his three children were. The king said, "I am going to another village and I will be back after 1 year. I am giving each of you one seed of a flower. You have to take care of that seed." After 1 year, the king came back. The first child had a pot with a very beautiful flower. The second child also had a pot with a very beautiful flower. But the third child had a pot with only soil. The king became very happy to see the third child's pot because the seeds that the king gave were boiled seeds. The moral of the story is to never judge anyone by their appearance.

Name: Mahek Malik

Class: 8-G

Subject: Charlie and chocolate factory

Good morning everyone. I am Mahek Malik from 8-E. Today I am going to present a book summary of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory written by Roald Dahl. The main characters of this book are Charlie Bucket, Willy Wonka, and the five children who won the Golden Tickets. Charlie Bucket was a young boy who lived with his parents and four grandparents in a small, improvised house. One day, Willy Wonka, the owner of the world's most famous chocolate factory, announced a contest. He had hidden five Golden Tickets inside his chocolate bars. The five lucky children who found the tickets would get a chance to tour his factory. Inside, they discovered a magical world of chocolate rivers and edible plants. Willy Wonka revealed that the tour was actually a test to find a person to take over the factory. Charlie won the contest and became the new owner of the factory. The moral of the story is that being kind and honest is more important than being greedy and selfish.

Name: Stuti Shah

Class: 7 - C

Good morning everyone! I am Stuti Shah from grade 7-C. Today my topic is the strongest character I have read about, and that character is Draupadi from the epic Mahabharata. Draupadi is not just a queen or a wife of the five Pandavas. She is a symbol of dignity, strength, and a fearless voice in a world dominated by power and patriarchy.

Her life was full of hardships—from being won in a swayamvar to being humiliated in the royal court and facing exile—yet she never gave up her courage. One of the most inspiring moments in her story was when she was dragged into the Kauravas' court and insulted in front of elders, warriors, and kings. But Draupadi didn't cry in silence; she raised her voice. She questioned the elders. She demanded justice. At that moment, she was not just a woman being wronged; she was a flame of resistance. Even after such an insult, she walked through years of exile with the Pandavas, standing like a pillar beside them. What makes Draupadi stand out is her ability to speak truth to power. Her strength was mental, emotional, and moral. She reminds us that even when the world is against you, you can still choose to be great through your actions and values.

Name: Yashvi M. Bhimani

Class: 7 - C

Topic: The most inspiring quote I found in the book

“The journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step.” Good morning teachers and my dear friends. I am Yashvi Bhimani from 7-C. Today I will present a book talk on Ignited Minds written by Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam.

This statement isn't just a poetic phrase; it's a roadmap for achieving great things. It means that no matter how big your goal is, the only way to reach it is by taking that very first, small step. Dr. Kalam, the former President of India, believed that every child has the potential to change the world. In this book, he shares his vision for a developed India and how young people can make it happen. He talks about the power of dreams and the importance of hard work and perseverance. He encourages us to think big and never give up on his goals. This book is an inspiration for anyone who wants to make a difference in the world. It teaches us that with a clear vision and a strong will, anything is possible.

Name: Mishree T. Bosamia

Class: 7 - C

Good morning everyone. I am Mishree Bosamia from 7-C. Today I am going to share a book summary of Charlotte's Web written by E.B. White. The main characters of this book are Wilbur the pig and Charlotte the spider. Wilbur was a small pig who lived on a farm. He was very lonely until he met Charlotte, a wise and kind spider. Charlotte became Wilbur's best friend and promised to save his life. She wrote words like "Some Pig" and "Terrific" in her web to make the farmer believe that Wilbur was special. Her plan worked, and Wilbur became famous and was saved from being turned into food. Charlotte showed us that friendship is about self-sacrifice and helping others. She was a true friend to Wilbur and will always be remembered for her kindness. If I were the writer, I would not have let Charlotte die. The moral of the story is that true friendship is a treasure that should be cherished.

Name: Aksh M. Nathwani

Class: 7 - B

A very pleasant morning and Namaste. I, Aksh Nathwani, am here to share my views on the topic "the book that every child in middle school should read." My book is the Bhagavad Gita. Shreeji baba said the Bhagavad Gita is a pathway to success. If we buy a new toy or gadget, there is a manual which tells how to operate it; in the same way, the Bhagavad Gita is the “manual of life.” In a competition, every participant tries to win, but do you know what the Bhagavad Gita teaches me? It teaches me to just do your work—do your “karma”—because the results are with Lord Krishna. When Draupadi was being dragged in the Mahabharata, she screamed for help. No one helped her, but afterwards, when she asked for help from Shree Krishna, he protected her. After that, Draupadi asked him, “When I was screaming for help, why didn’t you come to protect me?” Shree Krishna told her, “Had you remembered me? Had you thought about me?” So, I am telling you, just leave your thoughts and go to Shree Krishna. Tell him to become your “Sarathi,” your charioteer, and he will surely help you!

Name: Shekhada Yogesh V.

Class: 7 - B

I spoke about the book every middle school student must read. The book was called Charlotte’s Web by E.B. White. I tried my best, used expressions, and said my entire speech with correct pronunciation. I didn’t get a rank, but I’ll practice even harder than before.

I was speaking in front of the mirror, and I set the timer according to the paragraph—the longer the paragraph, the longer the speech. The first few times, I looked at the text while practicing, and after that, I didn’t look. But there is a twist: whenever I made a mistake, I would hit myself with my school belt! I was confident. I was nervous, but when I came to the stage, my fear and nervousness were gone. I thought, “This audience is not new; they are my own friends. Why am I nervous?” I am still sad because I tried very hard for this. Charlotte’s Web is a sweet story about a pig named Wilbur and his wise spider friend, Charlotte. Wilbur is a small, scared pig who faces a big problem: the farmer wants to kill him for food. But Charlotte, a clever spider, writes magic words in her web. These words make everyone love Wilbur and save his life. Charlotte teaches Wilbur about friendship, hard work, and bravery.

Name: Jeel N. Ghediya

Class: 7 - B

Sub : The Strongest character that I have read about.

Good morning respected teachers and my dear friends. I am Jeel Ghediya from 7th-A. Today my topic is the strongest character I have read about. My character is Bhishma from the Mahabharata. From a power perspective, what makes a person powerful? Is it physical strength, wealth, or weapons? To me, true power is the strength of character, and Bhishma is the perfect example of this. He was a great warrior, a wise statesman, and a man of his word. He is best known for his “Bhishma Pratigya,” a vow of lifelong celibacy and service to the throne of Hastinapur. Despite his adherence to his oath, it led him to many difficult situations, but he never wavered. In the Great War of Kurukshetra, he fought for the Kauravas, but his heart was with the Pandavas. Even when he was shot with thousands of arrows by Arjun and was lying on a bed of arrows, he did not die until he chose the time of his death. This shows his incredible mental and spiritual strength. Bhishma’s life teaches us about the power of sacrifice, loyalty, and the importance of fulfilling our duties.

This book tells us about the various avatars of Lord Vishnu and the importance of maintaining balance in the world. Each story in the Vishnu Puran has a deep meaning. It helps us understand our culture and the values that we should live by, such as truth, patience, and devotion. Reading this book gives me peace of mind and inspires me to be a better person. It is a very important book for everyone who wants to learn about our traditions and the power of God.

Name: Nakum Rushabh

Class: 7 - A

Good morning to one and all present here. My name is Nakum Rushabh from 7-A. Today I will present a book talk on Who Moved My Cheese written by Spencer Johnson.

The title of the book is a metaphor for what we want in life, whether it's a good job, a loving relationship, money, or health. The story is about four characters: two mice, Sniff and Scurry, and two "little people," Hem and Haw. They live in a maze and look for cheese. One day, the cheese is moved, and each character reacts differently. Sniff and Scurry immediately start looking for new cheese, while Hem and Haw stay behind and complain. Haw eventually realizes that he needs to move on and finds new cheese. This book teaches us that change is inevitable and we need to adapt to it. It encourages us to be proactive and look for new opportunities instead of staying stuck in the past. It's a great book for anyone who wants to learn how to handle change confidently.

Name: Shiv J. Joshi

Class: 7 - A

Topic: The strongest character I have read about

Name: SHERLOCK HOLMES

Hello respected teachers and my dear friends. I am Shiv Joshi from 7th-A. Today, I am going to deliver a speech on the strongest character I have read about: Sherlock Holmes.

Sherlock Holmes is not strong because of muscles or physical power. His strength comes from something far more impressive: his mind. He has an extraordinary ability to observe small details, think logically, and connect the clues that others miss. While the world sees confusion, Holmes sees patterns. His intelligence is a result of discipline and constant learning. Another reason he is such a powerful character is his calmness under pressure. Whether he is chasing criminals or solving mysteries, he stays focused and confident. He never allows fear or panic to control him. This reminds me that true strength often means staying steady even when the situation is difficult. His friendship with Dr. Watson shows a different kind of strength: loyalty and trust. He teaches us that anyone can be strong by training their mind. His strength is about intelligence, integrity, and resilience.

Name: Jadeja Vishwarajsinh . T.

Class: 7 - A

Good morning everybody! My name is Jadeja Vishwaraj from 7th-A.

My topic is the strongest character in my favorite book: Harry Potter.

Do you know why Harry Potter is the strongest character in the series? Many witches and wizards were powerful, like Albus Dumbledore and Lord Voldemort. At that time, becoming the strongest was hard, but Harry did it. There were many reasons, but four were main. 1st: "Power of Love and Sacrifice." After Harry's birth, Voldemort tried to kill the Potter family because they were coming between his plans to achieve immortality and kill all muggles. After killing Harry's father, he tried to kill Harry, but his mother sacrificed her life and produced a shield around Harry so Voldemort could not kill him. Harry is also the strongest because he is kind and loyal to his friends and helps at any time. He was also very brave. While others were not allowed to speak the name of Voldemort, Harry spoke his name without fear.

Name: Kumbhani Heer Nitinbhai

Class: 8 - A

Good morning everyone. I am Kumbhani Heer from 8-A. Today I want to talk about a book that has changed the way I think about myself: Limitless by Jim Kwik. The book is all about breaking the limits that we set for ourselves and unlocking our full potential. To break the limits in your mind is to be limitless. How do we do it? It's all about mindset, motivation, and method. We need to change the way we think about ourselves. We need to motivate ourselves to take action, and we need a method to achieve our goals. The power of our brain is limitless. We're capable of so much more than we think, but we often use only a small fraction of our capacity. Imagine what we could achieve with just a tiny bit more! To unlock our potential, we need focus. No distractions, no excuses. Remind yourself why you're doing something and let that drive you.

This means that success is not about doing something extraordinary, but about doing ordinary things with extraordinary dedication. The book also talks about the importance of having a positive attitude and believing in yourself. It's a very motivating book and I recommend it to everyone who wants to be successful in life.

The book teaches us how to use the law of attraction to achieve our goals and dreams. One of the main principles is "Ask, Believe, Receive." First, you need to ask the universe for what you want. Then, you need to believe that you will receive it. And finally, you need to be ready to receive it. The book also talks about the importance of gratitude and visualization. It's a very powerful book that can change your life if you follow its principles.

Book - The Cherry Tree

Good Afternoon Everyone! To one and all present here. The story The Cherry Tree is written by Ruskin Bond from the book Communicate by Cambridge.

Six-year-old Rakesh lives with his grandfather in Mussoorie. He eats some cherries and one seed is left. His grandfather suggests that if he wants to be lucky, he must put the seed to use by planting it. Rakesh plants the seed in the corner of the garden. The sapling faces numerous life-threatening challenges; it is even hidden by tall and wide grasses. Its leaves are eaten by a goat, and it is accidentally cut in half by a woman using a scythe. It also survives “monsoon blight,” which shrivels its stem.

Despite these setbacks, the tree shows incredible resilience and continues to grow. By the time Rakesh was nine, the tree had grown taller than him. One spring, the first pink blossom appears, which Rakesh and his grandfather view as a miracle. After eight years, the tree has grown tall and the first cherry appears. Rakesh eats the cherry and it is very sour. Although the first fruit is sour, the birds and bees love the tree’s nectar. The story ends with Rakesh and his grandfather resting under the mature tree and realizing that the tree is special because they planted it themselves. Rakesh feels a deep sense of pride and wonder.

Moral: Patience and care give you good things.
